This job posting peaked my interest because the company seems like a great place to work...it was named as a top Austin company to work for the past 4 years and employee satisfaction is a top priority. I think I would also grow tremendously because the team will challenge and push you to continue to learn. I really like that. I also like the idea of a working in teams.

This job seemed interesting because it involves working with a creative agency. I think I would really fit in with that crowd. I like that this is not only the front-end, but also the back-end.
